Raphael is said to have conceived, in Major A. T. Wood received the appointment to the position of United States Senator on last Friday, to succeed the Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn. Major Wood did not enter the scramble for the appointment and the honor came unsought, but like the true Republican that he has always proven himself to be, was willing to accede to his party's call and to enter upon the duties of the office. He was the subject of hearty congratulation from friends regardless of party, and not a few were the telegrams from prominent Republicans and clubs congratulating him.

ted; he has been one of them. He is a people hero, regardless of party, and his voice with him over his good fortune. A large crowd escorted him to the depot, he riding in a hack drawn by admiring men and boys. His address for the present will be Ebbitt House, Washington, D. C.

Major Wood steps from Councilman of the Third Ward to United States Senator. He was proud of the position of Councilman and carefully guarded the people's interest, and he makes as good a Senator as Councilman.

I have read with much interest those portions of President McKinley's inaugural address which treat of the money question and the trust. His declaration against trusts and other combinations of capital is encouraging to those who believe that it is the duty of the Government to protect the weaker members of society from those who are peculiarly powerful. His words justify us in expecting an aggressive policy, for he promises to recommend new legislation, if new legislation is necessary, as well as to enforce the laws already in existence.

The official duties of a President are so great and so exacting that he must lating him and expressing their approval.

That question must be settled by the people through their elected representatives, and commissions will have but little effect.

Major Wood has always been a man of pronounced political views with the courage of his convictions. It is a fact worthy of note that Major Wood is a Republican from principle. He believed in the theory, methods and policy of the party; and when it was unpopular to be a Republican he advocated and proclaimed them throughout his district and his State and when called he, at his own expense, went where he was most needed. His untiring work for the party commended it to the Governor. Then Major Wood is as well qualified as any Republican in the State. He will not be a fluent speaker on the floor, neither will he be correct in rhetoric or grammar, but he will make himself understood and will draw his bills with an accuracy which will be susceptible of one construction and this cannot be said of all Senators.

While Major Wood is strictly a Republican we do not believe he will advocate partisan methods to the detriment of the people's interest. With the people he has been closely identified.

It is a good thing (the) the senders don't count the words their telegrams with any R. Sometimes they run up to 100 or 200 words.

climan, the State will be pleased with the Governor's appointment. Major Wood was a poor boy—a painter by trade, a wagoner when there was nothing but dirt roads, a school teacher, a liverman, a lawyer, a candidate for Congress, Republican nominee for Governor of Kentucky, a councilman of the city of Mt. Sterling, and now United States Senator from Kentucky. A big hearted, brainy man, his votes will be cast according to his best judgment for the interests of the people and should be made a mistake, it will be one of the head and not of the heart.

C., St. Paul, Minn., and St. Louis failed to effect the enlargement. After six months of constant treatment here, my physician urged me to submit to a radical operation. At this critical moment, a friend recommended S.S.S., and I used a deep-rooted preparation of patent medicines, I believe. Before I had used one bottle, the enlargement began to disappear, and now, after a course of treatment, I am through with my second bottle yet. SHE KNEW HER NAME.

But it wasn't her Papa Calling. Only the Brakeman of the Railroad Car. She occupied the seat directly in front of me on a Central Railroad of New Jersey train from New York. She was a plump girl, with auburn hair and hazel eyes. She was evidently a girl employed in New York—perhaps a typewriter. Her name is Elizabeth. How do I know? Well, I didn't ask her. I never saw her before, and she called her name and she had nothing about her that served to tell me that her name is Elizabeth. Yet her name is Elizabeth.

I am not the seventh son of a seventh son, neither do I possess the power of second sight. But I found out that the name of the plump, curly-haired young lady in the seat in front of me is Elizabeth. Before we had gone many miles out of Jersey City the "band man" began to play havoc with Elizabeth. Her eyes became heavy, and every few seconds her head would drop. Before we had crossed Newark Bay Elizabeth was sound asleep. The train sped on, and when the speed was increased the brakeman opened the door and shouted: "Elizabeth! Elizabeth! Lie back!" With the first word the girl began to move. She looked at the brakeman and said: "Elizabeth!" The eyes were half open, and when he finally called "Lie back!" she rubbed her eyes and said, "Yes, Papa, I'll get up." Through the car ran the sound of suppressed laughter. But the girl had fallen asleep again, and when the train stopped and the brakeman called "Elizabeth!" the plump girl jumped up and said, "All right, I'm coming."

This was too much for the hairbrained dude across the aisle, and he began to "Ha, ha," while the giggling maidens several seats in front began to giggle more furiously. Even the sedate-looking old gentleman seated next me could not suppress a smile. By the time the girl was wide awake, and that she was conscious of what she had done was evident by the fact that her naturally red cheeks became redder still, and I even imagined that I saw tears in her eyes.

That is how I found out that her name is Elizabeth.—Gerald Gray in Allentown Call.

IN HOLLAND.

Some Curiosities of Etiquette in the Netherlands.

An unmarried girl in Holland always takes the right arm of her escort, while the married one selects the left side of her husband. So deeply has this custom entered into the life of Hollanders that at a wedding the bride enters the church on the right side of the groom, the young wife returning on the left side of her husband when the ceremony has been performed. No unmarried girl in this country can dream of going to church, a concert or any other place of public assemblage without the escort of a male member of the family. She cannot take a walk, pay a visit or go shopping unaccompanied by her mother or some married lady friend.

The Holland young man is fond of the theater with the gentleman who has been introduced to her a week or two, neither does she carry her own dress or complexion. Unmarried daughters are chaperoned to all places of amusement. Even dancing parties are interspersed with songs, recitations, and the recitation of verses. The family who sit around tables socially sip their coffee, wine or other favored beverage, while the young members of the family are called upon to recite strains of music. Here the young must make the best of their opportunities, for when it pleases the parents to seek quietude at home, the young people also quit the gaiety of the ballroom.—Philadelphia Times.

The Red Rocks.

In sight of the Erie tracks, between Saquehanna and Great Bend, are the Red rocks, a red cliff standing above the Saquehanna river. Near them can be seen traces of the grave of a beautiful Indian maiden, the daughter of a famous chief. She was betrothed to a young brave, a member of her father's tribe, then encountered her death. Her father desired her to marry the son of the chief of the neighboring tribe, and the will of the paternal ancestor usually counted for something.

In consequence she resolved to fly to the "happy hunting grounds," and one night she stole noiselessly from her wigwam, and, with the death song upon her lips, flung herself from the high cliff, her life's blood staining the rocks below. And to this day they have retained the reddish hue which the blood and floods of a century have failed to efface. When the maiden's lover saw her mangled corpse, he retired to a cave in the mountains and never was seen alive. Forty years later his petrified body was found in the cave by a wandering remnant of the tribe. Under his body were found the long, raven tresses of the old chief's daughter.—New York Press.

The Opportunity.

Fuddy—There seems to have been quite a change coming over Blosser. They say he gets up to speak almost every evening at the revival meetings in the Benish street church. Fuddy—Yes, it gives him an opportunity of calling people names. It is some satisfaction to him to be able to call folks sinners. And, then, you know, it isn't actionable. "Blessed" and "rascal" would be. But you make a mistake when you think that a change of heart has made any perceptible change in Blosser himself.—Boston Transcript.

A TEN CENT WORLD.

HOW A JERSEYMAN EXPLAINED HIS IDEAS OF THIS GLOBE.

He Made Globe by Melting a Silver Dime and Then as It Cooled Shoved Him the Earth, Which Was Once a Molten Mass, Got Its Mountains and Seas.

"If any one doubts that the earth was once a molten mass and that its mountain chains, its great tablelands and the recesses for the sea were the result of the cooling and settling of the surface and then its shriveling to fit the ever-shrinking center, let him see a world made," said the observant Jerseyman.

"That sounds simple," said one of his hearers, "but I haven't noticed that there were any worlds being made just now upon which progress was any faster than right here, and I can't say that I have observed much change in this old globe since I began to watch it."

"I have made many globes," declared the Jerseyman, "and I needly insensate things to represent what we know of the natural and political divisions of the earth, but miniature worlds of the days of chaos, with every particle in them aglow with heat and all in motion. And then I have watched them become cold, immobile and dead, with blackened, roughened surfaces and it required no great stretch of imagination to feel that within the few moments which the whole operation required one had traced over millions of years in the history of a planet and seen it pass through every stage of its existence, from that of a light glowing body to that of our own dead and desolate moon. Come with me," he continued, "and I will show you the history of our world since it first took form."

With that he led his little audience to a workbench and drew forth a chunk of charcoal covered on all but one side with plaster of paris, a blowpipe and a jeweler's soldering lamp.

"I will make the globe of a dime," he said. And he placed a silver 10 cent piece on the charcoal. Then he lit the lamp, and with the blowpipe directed the flame upon the dime. Soon the charcoal began to glow and burn away about the time in a broad hollow, and then the dime turned first black, and then red, and as it approached a white heat it drew itself together until presently it was a globe of molten silver.

If you have never seen such a ball of glowing, melted silver, you have missed one of the prettiest of sights. On the outside there forms a very thin skin of black oxide, which serves, like a woman's veil, to heighten the charms beneath it. With the blowpipe still adding heat to the globe, the silver became as liquid as water, and the gases emitted by the heated charcoal made it roll about in the hollow as mobile as quicksilver, while within the globe the metal could be seen agitated by intense currents. These currents changed their direction as the point of flame from the blowpipe was moved from point to point, and every moment the surface appeared so great that the rest of the oxide would break and disclose the dazzling metal beneath.

All know the beauty of quicksilver, and many have seen the glow of melted lead or tin or the red glare of iron as it is poured in the foundry or furnace, but none of these compares with the beauty of molten silver. Molten gold has a beauty of its own, but not like that of silver. The light which comes from the melted silver seems as brilliant as that from an electric light, but not dazzling; it is white, with a tinge of heavenly violet, and the swirling metal seems translucent like a pearl of the finest water.

"Now we will let it cool," said the Jerseyman, removing the blowpipe from his lips and letting his inflated cheeks resume their natural condition. The charcoal was placed on the bench. So the agitation of the surface of the tiny globe of silver ceased, and the quicksilver of the ball centering showed that a skin of metal had cooled and set in place.

"Now watch the mountains and valleys form and see the mighty earthquakes shake the crust," exclaimed the Jerseyman, and as he spoke the crust, which had been smooth and even, began to wrinkle. Sometimes the wrinkles would form long continuous lines across half the globe. Then in spots the whole surface would pucker up, and again all of these would straighten out only to form new series of puckers and wrinkles in other places. It was all over in half a minute, and the globe was set enough to drop into a glass of water to cool.

"Now look at it," said the Jerseyman, handing the globe to his visitors and with it a strong magnifying glass. "There is a mirror of water on it, caught in the interstices of the roughened surface. That is three or four times as much water in proportion as our earth has on it, so you have before you all the features of sea and land, mountain and valley."

It is indeed so, and although the glass would only show the more prominent features, there was no difficulty in seeing all the others with the mind's eye.—New York Sun.

Levish With Telegrams.

"Sending a telegram," says a Philadelphia telegraph man, "is a serious business for the ordinary man or woman. They think it's expensive and only use the wires when they have to. There's no exception, however, and a kind of complimentary business that most people would never suspect. Whenever there's a Hebrew wedding—that is one of any importance—my beautiful scores of congratulatory, hundreds sometimes, from all parts of the country. They are sent with directions to deliver at a certain hour, and we generally send them all to the house or the place where the reception is held, in one bunch. It's a good thing for the company, for the messengers don't count. The words and the telegrams with any revision. Sometimes they run to 100 or 150 words."

SPANISH GRANDEES.

They Constitute the Real Aristocracy of the Haughty Nation.

The real aristocracy of Spain is limited to the 248 grandees, many of them untitled, who enjoy innumerable privileges, including those of remaining seated and covered in the presence of royalty and of access to the sovereign at all times. Admission to the grandees is exceedingly difficult to obtain, for it is necessary to prove a long line of blue-blooded ancestry, unblemished either on the paternal or on the maternal side by any plebeian strain. The ancient ceremony of conferring the grandeeship—this and the ceremony of inducting a peer to his seat in the house of lords constitute the only forms of investiture of nobles that survive in the old world—terminated by the grandeeship, an exceedingly rare. Queen Christina has held but two since her husband's death; there were three during the reign of King Alfonso XII. One of the latest was witnessed by a writer in the New York Tribune, who thus describes it:

"It took place in the small throne-room of the royal palace at Madrid. The men of grandee rank were at the right of the dais and the women at the left. On the king exclaiming, 'Be seated!' they took their places upon tabourets, or stools of carved wood, topped with large purple velvet cushions. Everybody else, such as the members of the diplomatic corps and of the royal household, remained standing. Then the doors at the farther end of the room opened, and, preceded by a herald and two chamberlains and accompanied by the two grandees who act as sponsors, the postulant for admission to the grandeeship appeared and approached the throne with three low obeisances. A laboret, with purple cushion, having been brought and placed on the lowest of the steps leading up to the throne, the king commanded the candidate to be seated and thereupon addressed a few complimentary words to him, recalling the services of his family to the dynasty in bygone ages. Alfonso concluded his little speech by extending his hand to be kissed, at the same time directing him to take his place among the peers.

"Retiring backward from the royal presence, the newly-fledged grandee was conducted by his sponsors to the side of the hall occupied by the ladies of the grandee rank, to whom he made a low bow, and then to that of the men, whom he saluted in the same manner. He thereupon put his hat upon his head, his example being instantly followed by every grandee present, who all remained covered until, his stool and cushion having been removed from the steps of the throne and placed beside those of his peers, he had seated himself thereon. This brought to a close the actual ceremony of alimohada, which was rendered extraordinarily picturesque by the appearance of the women, by the gorgeous tabourets of the royal heralds and by the brilliant uniforms of the generals, the court officials, the ministers of state, and, last, but not least, by those of the diplomats."

Idaho's Island Wonder.

Henry Lake is a beautiful body of water with an area of about 41 square miles and is situated on the dome of the continent in a depression in the Rocky mountain range of western Idaho. Henry Lake is of no consequence itself, but it is the "home" of a most wonderful floating island, which is seen first on one side of the lake and then on the other. The island is about 800 feet in diameter and has for its basis a mat of roots and decayed vegetation sufficient to support large trees and a dense growth of underbrush. The edges of this floating island are thin, of course, but near the center it is several feet thick and of sufficient strength to support a good sized summer hotel, if some one could be found that would care to make such a venture. There is a good sized wharf thick near the center of the island, and scattered around among them are several dwarf pines and aspens. These trees catch the breeze which is continually blowing from the center of the island, and acting as sails on a boat, move the 800 foot island hither and thither over the 40 square miles of water at their will. Old mountaineers who are well used to all kinds of queer things declare that the floating island of Henry Lake is the most wonderful thing to be seen in the mountain regions of the United States.—St. Louis Republic.

Tackleton—Some one gave me a bad cot yesterday, and I didn't know what to do with it. Von Blumer—Couldn't you pass it?

Tackleton—Not for a long time. The first man I tried it on was a ticket clerk, and he refused to sit on it.

Von Blumer—Why didn't you try it on a chemist? Their profits are so great they're likely to be careless in money matters.

Tackleton—Oh, I did, but it wasn't any use. Then I tried to buy a newspaper with it, but the boy wouldn't have it. I went to a doctor, but he wouldn't do. I was almost discouraged, old man.

W. A. Sutton

Will move his immense stock of goods to the Fizer Building on March 1st, and I will do away with books and sell strictly for cash, and I know by making this change I can sell goods on smaller margin. I have gotten my rent for very much less and propose to sell goods cheaper than ever before. I have a very large stock of carpets and matting, and they are of very best standard brands and I will sell them at about as cheap as you can buy shoddy stuff. My matting stock is large and well selected, and I can sell matting from 10 cents a yard up. My furniture stock is complete and at prices to suit the times.

The members of the new Cabinet were all sworn in Saturday.

During the campaign we did not indulge in prophecies and guesses as to the result. We were content to dwell more upon the qualifications and characteristics of the candidates, and the methods used in influencing the voters, trusting to the judgment of the voters to select men, who could, with credit to themselves and honor to the district, discharge the duties of the offices. We endeavored to discourage the corrupting and dishonoring usage of money and whiskey. Our wishes have not been realized, yet we are not discouraged. We shall continue to insist upon a high standard of qualification and method of conducting a canvass. We leave these candidates to reflect upon their sports which at least are partially a record of by the voters of this district.

Primary Election.

The primary for the selection of Democratic Candidates for Judge and Commonwealth's Attorney in this (21st) district took place on Saturday, March 6th.

The campaign has been a heated one. Strenuous efforts have been made to poll the entire vote of the county and district. In this county a larger vote was pulled than was cast in November for the candidates of the Democratic, Prohibition and National Democratic parties combined. We give below what is said to be a correct vote of the county:

The vote for the Judges aggregates 1661 and for the Commonwealth's Attorney 1421. The Bryan and Sewall vote was 1609, the Palmer and Buckner 35 and the Prohibition 12. We regret our inability to give the complete vote of the district. The results obtained, which are unofficial, show that the vote of Menefee was divided as follows:

Tyler, 17; Nesbitt, 43; Cooper, 223; Day, 340; Williams, 454; Young, 72; Cassidy, 26.
Unofficial vote of Bath:
Day, 232; Cooper, 256; Tyler, 351; Nesbitt, 799. This count does not include two votes from Forge Hill, which are not reported. The four candidates go to Rowan county with the following vote:
Cooper, 966; Nesbitt, 719; Tyler, 972; Day, 1,015.
What is given out of vote of Rowan county is as follows:
117 Cooper 357, Tyler 357, Day 357, Nesbitt 357.

Cooper's majority over Day, 240. The charge is made by Day's friends in Rowan that fraud has been practiced in that county. They say that Day is entitled to 298 votes and Cooper to 194. Judge Day says he is positive that fraud has been practiced and says he will contest the election, and thinks he has been nominated.

The Judge's race seems to have overshadowed the Attorney's race. We have been unable to get the vote of Bath and Rowan for Attorney. The race between Williams and Young is said to be very close. Young claims he is nominated by 23 votes. The official vote will be counted in this city tomorrow.

Don't buy your hats until you see our line. CHENAUD & PUNCH.

To the Democratic Voters.
Having in my former race for County Clerk been slandered, maligned and traduced, I am not surprised at the methods that are now being used to defeat me in my present one. Of the many "crimes" of which I may be guilty, yet I have never, since I have been a voter, cast other than a Democratic vote, the statement of my opponents to the contrary notwithstanding. If my success depends on making misrepresentations concerning the gentlemen who are my opponents, I will be defeated. Give me a fair deal, and measure me by my merits. Respectfully,
W. B. O'CONNELL.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Miss Anna Fletcher Friday evening gave a social in honor of her visiting friend, Miss Quisenberry, of Winchester.

Thursday evening Miss Mary Domigan entertained the C. E. Society of the Christian church, and other friends at her home on High St. Most of the attendants were "ghosts." Delightful refreshments were served, and the young people were much pleased.

The ladies of the C. W. B. M. gave a social Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Annella Young. Most of the gentlemen were engaged with political and other affairs and did not attend. We who did attend enjoyed the event.

From the face of the returns received from the primary last Saturday Judge John E. Cooper has a majority for Circuit Judge and Will Young, candidate for Commonwealth Attorney, wires from Morehead that he is nominated by a majority of 23 votes. It is claimed that fraud has been perpetrated in Rowan county in the judges race and there may be a contest.

DEATHS.

Mrs. James Gilvry, of near Wade's Mill, died at her home on Sunday night. She was buried yesterday at the Kern Johnson grave yard.

Wm. Lee Durham, of Moorefield, died of typhoid fever on Thursday, March 4. He was a son of Charles Durham and nephew of W. F. Dickey and W. A. Durham, of this city.

Monday at 12:45 p. m. after eight months of suffering, Mrs. James B. Tipton departed this life aged 48 years. Funeral at the Christian church to-day at 2 o'clock p. m. conducted by Rev. H. D. Clark, assisted by Rev. J. W. Mitchell. Burial in Macphol cemetery. Mrs. Tipton had no superiors, a modest christian woman, having chosen that good part at the age of 16 years. Loving charitable, the Lord's chosen, Mrs. Tipton has entered upon her reward. She leaves a husband and one son, Auban. Home is desolate now because mother is gone, but in the bright beyond she is with the ones gone before, where the loved ones here by faith can enter.

Died, on yesterday morning at 10 o'clock of heart trouble, Mr. A. N. Riddle, aged fifty-eight years. Mr. Riddle was born in Cincinnati, from which place he moved to Champaign, Ill., where he lived until four years ago, when he located here and purchased the J. E. Cooper farm, where he died. He was a federal soldier in the late war and received a wound at the battle of Shiloh, which caused him to be very deaf, and from which he has been a great sufferer since 1862. He was a member of the G. A. R. Post at Champaign, Ill. A prosperous business man he did not neglect the preparation for eternity. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church, was a consistent christian, an affectionate husband, and a kind and loving father. Funeral at the First Presbyterian church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, service conducted by Rev. A. J. Arrick.

He leaves a wife, one daughter, Mrs. B. W. Hall, and a grand-daughter. Burial in Macphol cemetery.

Twenty Years....

For more than twenty years we have been telling how Scott's Emulsion overcomes the excessive waste of the system, puts on flesh, nourishes and builds up the body, making it the remedy for all wasting diseases of adults and children, but it isn't possible for us to tell the story in a mere stickful of newspaper type.

We have had prepared for us by a physician a little book, telling in easy words how and why Scott's Emulsion benefits, and a postal card request will be enough to have it sent to you free. To-day would be a good time to send for it.

Several weeks ago the Christian Church at East Union in Nicholas county was destroyed by fire. An effort is now being made to rebuild the house. Any assistance which can be offered will be gratefully received. We have at our office a subscription book, and shall be pleased to receive and forward all contributions.

The Sunday meetings at the Presbyterian Church were large and impressive. The house was packed at both the morning and evening services. The song service is an interesting and impressive part of the meetings. The increased choir with the addition of an orchestra greatly aids. The music is led by Prof. Allison. He has great power, and his solo Sunday evening surpassed everything ever heard in that church for impressive melody.—Commercial, Vincennes, Ind.)

Prof. Allison will be remembered by our people as the gentleman who so successfully led the singing in the Biederwolf meetings held here last year.

MARRIAGES.

It is rumored that a couple of our young people will be married in Lexington one day this week, the Rev. Matt Hart performing the ceremony.

Luther Mason, son of John H. Mason, aged 17 and Miss Willie McClure, of about the same age, daughter of Mrs. A. M. McClure, eloped to Jeffersonville, Ind., on last Friday and were married by Square House on Saturday. The young couple have rooms at the home of the bride's mother, near this city.

CREATED

AN IMMENSE SENSATION.

Sermon by Rev. E. E. Bomar at the First Baptist Church, Aiken, S. C.

Vigorously Attacks Golf Playing.

Practicing of Horses For Races AND OTHER SUNDAY SPORTS.

Rev. Edward E. Bomar, of the First Baptist Church, Aiken, S. C., created a sensation by his vigorous sermon on observance of the Sabbath some time since. His words were directed especially against the sports and pastimes indulged in on the Sabbath day, by the winter sojourners here. Following is the sermon:

Text: "The Sabbath was made for man."—Mark 2: 27.

I need more than call attention to the text. The Almighty, when He had finished His work of creation, set us the example of resting on the 7th day from all His labors. Wherefore, the Lord blessed the day and hallowed it. When He spoke to His chosen people, He gave the law again in the head of the Commandment: "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work, but the seventh is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God; in it, thou shalt do no work, etc. And our Lord, meeting the petty exactions of the Jews said: "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." God in His wisdom and goodness gave us this ordinance and we are to keep it. It is positively binding on the Christian. If he follows Jesus he must keep the Sabbath of the Lord God. Reverence, fear, love and holiness without which none can see God, are hindered and often rendered an impossibility by neglect and disregard of this commandment.

The laws of a land which recognize no religious distinction have yet unanimously recognized this day.

All Christian lands set apart one day, by law, in which there shall be no labor, and which shall be regarded as sacred to the Lord.

I appear before you tonight to plead for the observance of the Lord's day by the Lord's people and for the enforcement of the laws regulating the civil Sunday, or day of rest. There is a difference between the Christian Sabbath and the civil Sabbath, though both occur on the same day. The Christian Sabbath rests upon the Bible; the civil Sabbath upon the laws of the land. The one is a religious institution; the other an institution designed to protect the public and aid in the establishment and maintenance of good government. I come as a minister of the gospel to plead for these two things. I do not forget that I am a preacher. It is as a preacher I speak, because the duties of the pulpit are many and this is one. What I shall say is with malice towards none and charity to all; and in fear of God, keeping constantly in mind the injunction of our Savior. "The Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath." However strongly I may speak, I have nothing of sectarian or sectional bitterness and nothing but love and good will for my fellow men.

THE CHRISTIAN SABBATH.

Recent Japanese visitor to this island said what surprised him most in this land. He had been observing that slight respect was paid by the people for the Lord's day. According to well established usage it is a day for sacred rest; for cessation from worldly pleasure and worldly cares and devotion to God. It was made to help the Christian on to the better knowledge of God. Yet what do we see? Christian people using that day as a holiday. Men of business lie abed in the morning, on the plea that they must rest. They know no such thing as a preparation for the Sabbath. Men who are professors of religion opening their places of business on the slightest pretext. The members of Christian families using that day as a day of pleasure, to visit, to read light literature, especially the big Sunday papers.

Let us then look at the principles upon which the civil Sabbath rests, especially in the point of amusements. It may be said that the laws are intended to make the day one of rest and recreation, and hence that amusements that are not harmful are unobjectionable. This is the strongest argument and I shall endeavor to meet it.

As a fact this is not true of the laws of this State. They prohibit all public games and make the penalty severe. The last Legislature passed upon the subject with special reference to this very evil. The policy of this State is to observe each day not only as a day of rest, but as a holy day. The peace and quiet of the day is guarded. No liquor is sold on that day; no public games are permitted; no bad conduct is allowed; no sales are permitted except in cases of necessity. In a word the feeling of this State is to make the day a quiet one. The State does not confine itself to mere prohibitory legislation, but seeks to make it possible and even to induce its citizens to seek the highest morality in the worship of God. As Judge O'Neal said in the city council versus Benjamin this is, in fact, a Christian government and the final appeal on all questions of morality is to the teachings of God's word. "What else," said he, "is there to appeal to?"

Public sports tend to meddle with the public order because it threatens the police power of this State. In the exercise of this power the State must not only punish rioters, but prevent riots. In the exercise of this power it permits the selling of liquor six days but prohibits it on Sunday. It permits circuses, etc., for six days, but prohibits them on the seventh.

Who does not know that to permit public sports on the Lord's day encourages license, crowds and drunkenness. Why? for the reason that people on that day are released from their ordinary avocation. And as the laws of the State—and containing said:

Yet in the face of this, what do we see? The factories using that day to repair machinery, freight trains running on Sunday; until very lately the shops in town open on Sunday—and especially the utter violation of the day, trampling upon the laws of the land, in shooting pigeons, golf playing, and even the practicing of horses for the races. If I am mistaken in any of these statements, and the proof is clear, I will gladly retract, but the proof must be clear. Sunday excursions are becoming quite common and they are in clear violation of the laws of the land.

The law, it is said, is inoperative. Why? Because of the inconsistency of Christians and in the looseness and in difference of public sentiment. I want to arouse public sentiment. I do not know that I shall be able to stop these practices, but I shall do all I can to cause them to cease. I am a citizen, an attorney at law, as well as a preacher, and if necessary I am prepared to exercise my rights for the public good.

law, and Martin this day is a legal holiday. All public business is suspended, and no public sports or pastimes are allowed. No freight trains are permitted to run on this day, except those carrying perishable goods, and only then in a few months in the year; no selling or buying is allowed and no work of any kind.

The preacher referred to the statutes of the State—the decisions of the supreme court of South Carolina and of the United States—and containing said:

Yet in the face of this, what do we see? The factories using that day to repair machinery, freight trains running on Sunday; until very lately the shops in town open on Sunday—and especially the utter violation of the day, trampling upon the laws of the land, in shooting pigeons, golf playing, and even the practicing of horses for the races. If I am mistaken in any of these statements, and the proof is clear, I will gladly retract, but the proof must be clear. Sunday excursions are becoming quite common and they are in clear violation of the laws of the land.

but prevent riots. In the exercise of this power it permits the selling of liquor six days but prohibits it on Sunday. It permits circuses, etc., for six days, but prohibits them on the seventh.

Who does not know that to permit public sports on the Lord's day encourages license, crowds and drunkenness. Why? for the reason that people on that day are released from their ordinary avocation. And as the laws of the State—and containing said:

Yet in the face of this, what do we see? The factories using that day to repair machinery, freight trains running on Sunday; until very lately the shops in town open on Sunday—and especially the utter violation of the day, trampling upon the laws of the land, in shooting pigeons, golf playing, and even the practicing of horses for the races. If I am mistaken in any of these statements, and the proof is clear, I will gladly retract, but the proof must be clear. Sunday excursions are becoming quite common and they are in clear violation of the laws of the land.

morals of the land. We give free schools to colored people; establish a college for their benefit. Yet numbers of them are employed in games on Sunday at the very hour the bells are calling them to church. We give our schools and churches to our boys and girls, yet they are led away by the fascination of this and other games.

These then are the grounds upon which the civil Sabbath is established—the public order—the promotion of peace—and the making of good citizens. But a set of people with money to spend and time to throw away, trample upon the cherished institutions of the land.

Brothers, I know that these people by their wealth built up the town commercially, but I had rather a thousand times to see the South remain poor but honest, than to be corrupted by mere pleasure-seekers, who fear not God nor regard men. The South is conservative. Let her remain so. It is better to be right than rich; better to grow slowly than to have a growth built upon wrong principles.

I plead that these things shall cease, that reverence for God and for institutions that have been established in wisdom shall grow and not decrease; that no love of gain shall make us forget that a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth; that shall foster the conservative and pure laws which have received the sanction of good men in all ages, and then no love of pleasure shall cause us to forget what we owe to our country, to our fellow-men and to our God.

I appeal to all who are present to aid in preserving for this generation and for those yet unborn, the quiet Sabbath rest, which helped to make our fathers the great and good men that they were. I appeal unto any Sabbath-breaker in the name of State, in the name of religion and the commonweal, to cease his evil ways. I appeal unto Christians to stand by their colors and to set a right example before the world. I appeal unto all good citizens to say in word and deed that this desecration must cease.

THE PRICE IS LOW

And the Results Satisfactory—It Only Costs 25c.

Sister, you wouldn't hesitate a second to pay 25c for just one dose of a medicine that would give you instant relief when suffering intense pain, would you? Now, Lightning Hot Drops will most positively cure all forms of stomach and bowel trouble, diarrhoea, cholera, morbus, flux, cramp, colic, wind on the stomach, indigestion, infantile colic, etc., and only costs 25c per bottle—over thirty doses. Lightning Hot Drops cures permanently and quickly and leaves no bad effects. You will be surprised to find out how quick relief comes after its use. Lightning Hot Drops will relieve any kind of a pain, external or internal. It is convenient to have on hand at all times, for you can't tell how soon an accident will happen.

Drop a better in the house than a cupboard full of paragon, Balaen's drops, plasters, Jamaica, ginger, camphor pills and liniments. It does the work of them all combined, and only costs 25c a bottle. Wonderful, wonderful, are the virtues of this great universal remedy. You take no chances in buying it either, for if you feel the benefit after using it as directed your druggist will give your money back.

You see it costs nothing to try it. It is cheaper to buy the 50c bottle as it contains 24 times as much as the 25c size. If you don't need it today get a bottle anyway and have it on hand in case something happens. Not one false statement has been made nor an exaggerated account given of the great effects of Lightning Hot Drops, and when you have once used it you will be of the same opinion. Lightning Hot Drops are made by the Carb Medicine Co., Springfield, O., and no honest druggist will try to sell you something else, for it is not as good as Lightning Hot Drops.

Removal.

Don't forget that I have removed to the opposite side of the street just north of the Phoenix Stables, where I will carry a larger and more complete stock than ever of saddles, harness and plow gear.

NEW SILVER DAILY. THE LOUISVILLE DISPATCH

TO BE RESTARTED

APRIL 1, 1897.

Will advocate true Bi-Metallism and will support all Democratic nominees—National, State, District, County and City. There is not a Metropolitan Paper in Kentucky that advocates the paramount issue before the American people—the FREE COINAGE OF SILVER—that doctrine which is favored by two-thirds of the white people of Kentucky, two-thirds of the intelligence, and two-thirds of the property holders of the State.

That a daily paper representing the idea in accord with nine-tenths of the Democracy of Kentucky should be started, there can be no doubt. If you are a Democrat and favor the Free Coinage of Silver, and are tired of being called a Republican, fanatic, crank, etc., by the so-called Democratic papers of Louisville, encourage the new paper by subscribing for a little of the capital stock thereof.

A SENSIBLE INNOVATION.

The Shortness May Be a Little Too Short.

Baltimore, Md., March 3.—This was the first rainy and muggy day in March in this city, and some 200 of the 250 members of the Women's Bazaar Day Club kept the pledges they had signed and appeared on the streets in skirts that swung three inches or more from the ground.

It was a noticeable fact, however, that nearly every one of them wore dainty new boots with fancy kid tops. Not a few through force of habit when crossing the muddy streets, involuntarily clutched at the back of their skirts and thoughtfully raised them higher than they would have done had they been longer. Some wore rain boots, with stout soles, but few, if any, wore rubbers.

For some years we have desired to see the ladies institute a change in the length of dresses. Why should a woman be compelled to use one or two hands in order to keep her skirts from becoming bedraggled? Why not have a pocket in the dress? The ladies are handy when it comes to carrying an umbrella, a handkerchief, a pocket book, a case and manage her skirts at one and the same time. As a remedy, we suggest shorter skirts, and the addition of a jacket.

Salaries of the Church of England

As matters now stand it costs a pretty penny to maintain the pomp of that Church of which the Queen is the supreme governor on earth.

The salary of the Primate (Archbishop of Canterbury) is the goodly sum of $75,000 per annum, punctually paid. The Archbishop of York has $50,000; the Bishop of London, $50,000; the Bishop of Durham, $35,000; the Bishop of Winchester, $32,500; the Bishop of Bangor, $21,000; the Bishop of Bath and Wells, $25,000; the Bishop of Ely, $27,500; of Gloucester, $25,000; of Chester, Exeter, Hereford, Lichfield, Liverpool, Llandaff, Manchester, Ripon, St. Asaph, $21,000 each; of Carlisle, Lincoln, Norwich, Peterborough, St. David's, $25,500 each; of Oxford, Salisbury, Worcester, $25,000 each; Newcastle, $16,000; Rochester, $19,000; St. Albans, $16,000; Sodor and Man, $9,000; Southwell, $17,500; Truro, $15,000; Wakefield, and think of the army of deacons, and think of the army of monks.

It may infer that the Church of England is an expensive institution, requiring a very high average of cost for each soul brought to grace.

G. S. Everingham, formerly of the great firm of McGee, Everingham & Company, has been expelled by the Chicago Board of Trade by a unanimous vote of the directors. It is a curious case, having made false and untrue reports of purchases and sales. The verdict caused a sensation in Board of Trade circles.

The Big Sandy steamer Favorite left Louisville last night. Passengers crew had a narrow escape, and cargo is total loss.

OUR PRESIDENTS.

The Manner in Which United States' Chief Executives Have Retired.

Most of Them Remained in Peaceful Seclusion.

The manner of the exits from public life of the Presidents of the United States has always possessed a peculiar interest to the people. Now that President Cleveland has broken the record by twice becoming an ex-President, interest is enhanced in this class of our eminent fellow citizens.

President Cleveland retires at the age of sixty years. The average age at which the Presidents relinquish the executive office is that at which Mr. Cleveland now retires.

President Washington went from the Executive Mansion to his rural home at Mount Vernon at the age of sixty-five years.

President John Adams arose before dawn on the morning of the fourth of March, 1801, and set out in his coach for home in Massachusetts, where he spent the remainder of his life in peaceful and happy seclusion, devoting himself to literary research and correspondence with his friends.

President Thomas Jefferson. He was sixty-five years old at his retirement, and he lived not only to see his oldest son President, but to reach the greatest age of all the ex-Presidents.

Jefferson retired to Monticello at the age of sixty-six after forty years of continuous service, so "seriously impoverished," as the chronicles have it, "that he was not strong enough to leave Washington without being arrested by his creditors."

Madison, at the close of his second term, was sixty-six years old. He spent the rest of his days with his books and friends.

President Monroe, when he retired from the White House on March 4, 1825, at sixty-seven years of age, went to his modest home at Oak Hill, Loudoun county, Virginia. There he accepted an election to the office of local magistrate.

The Junior Adams left the Executive Mansion for retirement to be soon broken by his return to Washington as a member of the House of Representatives, five years later, in 1831.

In 1848, in the Capitol, he died in the harness, aged 81 years and the oldest member of the House.

"Old Hickory" rode down the avenue on the fourth of March, 1837, the weather being remarkably pleasant, by the side of his successor, in a handsome phaeton made of wood from the historic frigate, Constitution. The vehicle was a present from the Democrats of New York. After the inaugural ceremonies he repaired at once to his Hermitage retreat, near Nashville, Tenn. He died in 1845, at the age of 75, just seven years after leaving the White House.

President Van Buren retired in 1841 to the shades of Lindenwald, beautiful country seat in his native county, Columbia, N. Y. He spent the rest of his days in the singular enjoyment of the reflection that the veto had never been exercised by him while President.

The first Harrison lived just one month after his inauguration. He had called an extra session on the 17 of March, 1841, but did not live to the day set.

President Tyler retired to his Virginia home March 4, 1845, at the age of fifty-five. He remained in retirement until the beginning of the civil war, when he became a member of the Confederate Congress, and died in 1862.

President Polk retired to his home at Nashville, but survived only a few months, dying in 1849, aged fifty-four years.

President Taylor died at the Executive Mansion in 1850, and Fillmore, who succeeded him, retired in 1853 to his home in Buffalo, N. Y., and in 1856 was the defeated nominee for President of the National American party. He died in 1874, aged seventy-four years.

President Pierce, after the 4th of March, 1857, retired to his home at Concord, New Hampshire, where he died in 1869, aged sixty-five years.

President Buchanan retired from the Chief Executive office in 1861 to his home near Lancaster, Pa., and for the remainder of his private life was a very much abused ex-President.

The sad endings of the lives of "the martyred Presidents," Lincoln and Garfield, is familiar history.

President Andrew Johnson retired to his home in Greenville, Tenn., on the expiration of his term of office, in 1869. He participated in the political discussions of the times and was elected to the United States Senate in 1875, but lived only a few weeks after returning to public life in Washington.

President Grant, in 1877, after the termination of his eight years as President, made a tour of the world, which was one of the most noted incidents of his later years. He was enthusiastically urged for the Republican nomination for President in 1880.

President Hayes at the end of his term for four years, retired to his home at Fremont, Ohio, where he died a quiet but useful life, until his death in 1892. When he was last in Washington he was seen on foot marching in a procession of the Grand Army of the Republic, which in 1892 held its annual encampment in that city.

President Arthur went from official life at the White House in 1885 to New York City, where he resumed the practice of his profession, the law, but was suddenly called by death from a busy career not long after his successor, Mr. Cleveland, entered upon his duties.

President Harrison laid aside executive cares and responsibilities in 1893 and resumed the practice of his profession, the law, at Indianapolis, Ind. The interest in him, which he elicited even by marrying his deceased wife's niece, he has recently much quickened by becoming in the sixty-fourth year of his age the father of a healthy baby girl.

President Cleveland left the White House last Thursday to go duck hunting and hereafter will be domiciled at Princeton, N. J.

The two Adams were the only Presidents who took no part in the ceremonies inaugurating their successors.

Funny Blunders.
The following is surely the funniest vote of thanks uttered for a long time. The speaker, with evidently the best intentions in the world, nervously stumbled along through various sentences complimentary to the lecturer, and finally flickered out feebly thus: "And so I propose a vote of thanks for the lecture to which we have so happily listened." The audience was so worried that they did not notice the tenuous remark and only the lecturer smiled.

It is fit to be placed beside another middle-headed sentence made in conversation to a North London clergyman. A man had been pressing his views energetically on certain question, when suddenly he paused, and looking at the clergyman, said briefly, "And now, sir, what is your humble opinion?"—Tit-Bits.

The Rev. George S. Mallory, editor of the Churchman, of New York, died last Tuesday.

GOV. BRADLEY

Has Issued a Call For An Extra Session of the General Assembly.

MARCH 13TH, 1897, THE DAY.

Col. A. T. Wood, of This City, Commissioned United States Senator

TO SUCCEED J. C. S. BLACKBURN

Numerous Subjects to Be Considered, But Principally

No. 42.

Governor W. O. Bradley has issued a call for an extra session of the Legislature and the date fixed is Saturday, March 13th.

The call embraces the consideration of forty-two subjects. At the same time the Governor issued his commission to Major A. T. Wood, of this city, as United States Senator to succeed Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn, whose term expired March 4th.

The following is the Governor's proclamation:

Proclamation, State of Kentucky, Executive Department.—Whereas the last General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky failed to enact laws necessary to the greater safety and protection of life and property against mob violence; whereas, said body likewise failed to provide for the floating debt, necessary expenditures of government and appropriations, curtailing of expenses, the essential administration of public affairs and the passage of much other needed legislation, by reason of all which expenses are not diminished, its credit impaired and human life and property denied proper protection, therefore I regard this as an extraordinary occasion, and by virtue of the authority vested in me as Governor of said Commonwealth, hereby convene said General Assembly at Frankfort, the seat of government, where it will meet on March 13, 1897, to continue in session as much as sixty days.

The subjects to be considered by said body are as follows:

First—The prevention of mob violence, the punishment of those engaged in same and the protection of life, limb and property.

Second—The curtailing of salaries, fees, expenses and costs in each and every branch of the public service, insuring of speedy trials and verdicts, and preventing the burdening of the Appellate and Circuit Court dockets.

Third—Amending the criminal law concerning grand larceny, embezzlement and obtaining money under false pretenses.

Fourth—Allowing the State Inspector and Examiner to employ a stenographer and providing compensation for the same.

Fifth—Providing for the payment of the floating debt, current expenses and necessary appropriations, made and to be made for the State.

Sixth—Abandoning the penitentiary at Eddyville and providing necessary work shops, cells, machinery, etc., at the Frankfort penitentiary; or, if this be not deemed proper, providing the necessary work shops, machinery, etc., at each of said penitentiaries.

Seventh—The adoption of such legislation as may be necessary to provide for the building or purchase of a house or houses of reform, amending or changing the law in regard thereto, and providing for the confinement of persons mentioned in the act creating such houses in places other than the penitentiary.

Eighth—Thoroughly amending, changing and revising the election laws.

Ninth—Providing that elections for School Trustees shall be held by secret ballot.

Tenth—Apportioning the State into Appellate and Circuit Court, Senatorial and legislative districts, as provided by the constitution.

Eleventh—to create any necessary, additional Circuit Court districts and changing the time of holding any Circuit Court.

Twelfth—Authorizing the revision, alteration, amendment or codification of the statute laws of the State.

Thirteenth—Legalizing the discounting of asylum warrants and providing for the necessary improvement of asylums and sewerage of same.

Fourteenth—Preventing convicts from testifying, or regulating the manner of same.

Fifteenth—Relieving litigants, who have actions pending, or that may be pending in the Court of Appeals for the period of two years.

Sixteenth—Enlarging the powers and duties of the Board of Pharmacy.

Seventeenth—Compelling State banks, trust companies, private banks, building and loan associations, and other like corporations, to make quarterly reports and providing for the appointment of an inspector and examiner of same, whose salary is to be paid by said institutions.

Eighteenth—Amending statute governing cities of the second-class as to method of assessment for street and sewerage purposes, and as to public libraries therein.

Nineteenth—Providing severe punishment of all persons who interrupt public meetings or speakers, or deny or abridge the right of free speech.

Twentieth—Protecting trees and plants from the ravages of the San Jose Scale.

Twenty-first—Amending the law regarding trust companies.

Twenty-second—Making the law regarding operators of mines and stone quarries applicable to owners of gas and oil wells.

Twenty-third—Amending the act of August 16, 1892, regarding the issue of bonds by counties to fund indebtedness and payment of same.

Twenty-fourth—Empowering Sinking Fund Commissioners to reinvest the $165,000 belonging to the State Agricultural and Mechanical College, or issue bonds for same and making good any losses sustained by that institution.

Twenty-fifth—Protecting coal miners concerning the shipment of convict coal into this State.

Twenty-sixth—Providing for the submission to the voters of the State taking vote thereon, and certifying the amendment now proposed, and those hereafter proposed, to the State constitution.

Twenty-seventh—Fixing the boundaries of cities and towns of this State situated contiguous to the other States.

Twenty-eighth—Amending statute governing cities of the fourth-class.

Twenty-ninth—Amending the law relating to "Official Indecency."

Thirtieth—Amending and altering the law concerning public printing and stationery.

Thirty-first—Amending revenues and taxation laws, concerning the duties of Sheriffs to exhaust all remedies to collect taxes before selling land, facilitating the collection of delinquent taxes, changing the time of making reports to the Auditor for use of the Board of Valuation and Assessment, and changing the time of rendering reports to said Board by corporations.

Thirty-second—The passage of laws clearing, defining and carrying into effect the provisions of Sections 205, 244 and 246 of the constitution.

Thirty-third—Changing the time of making reports by the Insurance Commissioner.

Thirty-fourth—Modifying and amending the laws for the government of towns in the sixth class and other towns.

Thirty-fifth—Amending section 22, article 3, chapter 100, public act, 1891-3-3.

Thirty-sixth—Amending section 16, article 2, chapter 48, public act, 1894; also amending an act entitled, "An act to amend section 14, chapter 63 general statutes," approved January 16, 1882; also amending section 9, chapter 243; public act, 1891-3-3.

Thirty-seventh—Amending the law

Baby Mine!

Every mother feels an indescribable dread of the pain and danger attendant upon the most critical period of her life. Becoming a mother should be a source of joy to all, but the suffering and danger of the ordeal make its anticipation one of misery.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

is the remedy which relieves women of the great pain and suffering incident to maternity; this hour which is dreaded as woman's severest trial is not only made painless, but all the danger is removed by its use. Those who use this remedy are no longer despondent or gloomy; nervousness, nausea and other distressing conditions are avoided, the system is made ready for the coming event, and the serious accidents so common to the critical hour are obviated by the use of Mother's Friend. It is a blessing to woman.

Thirty-eighth—Regulating the jurisdiction of Appellate, Circuit, County and Quarterly Courts.

Thirty-ninth—Amending an act entitled, "An act to amend an act, entitled: An act providing for the creating and regulating of private corporations" in so far as same amends section 34 of same, chapter 43, public acts of 1891, 1892, 1893.

Fortieth—Establishing and regulating fees, collectable by Secretary of State, and manner and time of payment into treasury.

Forty-first—The passage of an act allowing cities and towns to buy property for taxes and hold same subject to redemption as to real estate.

Forty-second—The election of a United States Senator to fill the vacancy in said office upon the expiration of the temporary term of the Hon. A. T. Wood.

Done at the Capitol in Frankfort, Ky., on this 5th day of March, 1897, in the 105th year of the Commonwealth.

(State Seal Attached.) WM. O. BRADLEY.

C. E. NOTES.

Cincinnati Endeavorers are talking of inviting the convention of 1899 to meet in that city.

The next convention of the Indiana Christian Endeavor Union will be held at the Winona Assembly and Summer School Association grounds in August.

The State Executive Committee expect to begin the publication of a State paper next month. It will be issued quarterly for the present, and will be changed to a monthly as soon as enough subscriptions are received to justify. It will be published from the ADVOCATE job rooms.

Kentucky Endeavorers will be pained to learn of the illness of Rev. J. Z. Tyler, of Cleveland, O. He has been compelled to go south on account of his health. He is pastor of the church that entertained the Kentucky delegation at the convention in 1896, and endeared himself to the hearts of all. They will pray for his speedy recovery.

Hon. William J. Bryan's message to Endeavorers in last week's Golden Rule is worthy of careful study by all. "Our government will be such a government as the people make it. If I do not exert myself to make the government good and the laws just, what right have I to expect a great exhibition of patriotism than I am willing to give."

Attention, Farmers! Said a prominent and successful farmer the other day: "I don't see why people don't make more use of the advertising columns of their country paper. A farmer wants to buy some shots, the average man will spend several days paying toll and riding over the country looking for them. A fifty cent advertisement will bring the men with the hogs to sell to the buyer, instead of the latter having to look the seller up. This is also true when a farmer has anything to sell. If I had a few sheep or shots that I do not need, or if I have a superior article of seed corn, I believe the best method of selling them is to let the people know that I have them for sale. Or in general, by means of an advertisement I can communicate with a thousand people more cheaply than I could personally communicate with a hundred."

Wright's Celery Tonic regulates the liver and kidneys, cures constipation and sick headache. 25c at all druggists.

How to Find Out. Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine, or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar.
